Since obtaining ISO 9001 certification in 2004 for the storage and processing of image data on electronic media, we have maintained rigorous quality management for over 20 years, providing digitization, processing, and storage services for our customers' valuable information. In response to the recent increase in cases where we are entrusted with both digitizing and storing original paper documents, we have established a quality management system specifically for the document storage process, which has expanded our certification scope. This expansion enables us to provide consistent, ISO 9001-compliant services throughout the entire workflow—from the storage of original paper documents and, as required, digitization (media conversion) to final data delivery.
